Autobiography

My name is Andrii. I am 26 years old. I was born in the small town of Ovruch which is located in Zhytomyr region. I have not big but friendly family which consists of father, younger sister and me. My father worked as a firefighter and my mother was a housewife. I'm not married.

My weight is 85 kg and my height is 175 cm.

From the young age I often go to my grandmother to help with the household. She lives in the village and keeps some livestock: several pigs and chickens. I was taught how to prepare the food for them, feed and water them and take care in general.

Studying at school my father advised me to follow his steps and become a firefighter too. I was inspired firstly with this idea, but soon I changed my mind. I wanted to find myself and after school I worked on different jobs. I tried my hand in the construction, in trading and in agriculture. Also I worked as a seasonal worker in Germany where I picked and packed strawberries. I made the conclusion that agriculture is the closest to my heart and I decided to get an education in this branch.

In 2019 I entered the Vocational Agrarian Lyceum in Khmelnytsk region. My choice fell on the faculty of veterinary and stockbreeding as I had already basic experience in animal husbandry. In lyceum I did the practice on the training farm. My duties included taking care of the animals, feeding and giving water to them, moving the animals, cleaning up the stables.

Concerning my knowing foreign languages, I can speak English and Russian. Ukrainian is my native language. I have the driving license for a tractor and experience of driving it. My hobbies are: learning English and fishing with friends.

In Denmark I want to get a good experience in working with animals and then use it in Ukraine, because Ukraine has good prospects in this direction as it is an agrarian country. Denmark is an agricultural role model for many countries and I would be grateful for the opportunity to do the internship at the dairy farm.

Regards,

Andrii
